

251, Reception London

Market Sector:
Residential

The Client:
Laing O'Rourke

Services supplied:
Reception area

THE PROJECT

We spent 12 weeks working with Laing O'Rourke on the reception area of this residential new-build in Southwark, central London, which contains both affordable and penthouse accommodation. The design requirements were meticulous: we had to follow detailed architectural instructions and work alongside other trades looking after different parts of the building.

THE PROCESS

The work we completed is striking: bespoke ribbed acoustic panelling was transported to site from Spain, which we then fitted to the walls and ceilings. Glass painted walls around the reception area highlight the stainless steel lift lifts we fitted, as well as the reception desk itself and specially manufactured black lacquered panels.
