THE PROJECT

MJ Hillson teams worked on doors, skirtings, architraves, signage, ironmongery, bathroom furniture and communal areas in three blocks in this residential project in south London: K North, K South and L. Over the three blocks, there were 138 apartments – a mixture of one-, two- and three-bedroom units comprising shared-ownership flats, private dwellings, elite and premium elite units and penthouses.

THE PROCESS

High-specification was the name of the game on this project. We were using high-quality materials including engineered boards and floorings, European oak, granite and slate, high-gloss doors and mirrored vanity units. One of our key challenges was working with stained doors and ensuring that front doors matched riser doors and lift surrounds. Another challenge we were passionate about getting right was fire safety, especially concerning the decorative resin panels in the foyers.
