THE PROJECT

Acacia Road was a little out of the ordinary for us in that it was an individual residence, rather than a development or a commercial project. A team of six spent six months on site with contractor Chalgrove as this high-spec house was rebuilt into a four-floor luxury single dwelling, including a basement, pool and gym area, dormer windows and a home cinema.

THE PROCESS

The project manager, QS and four carpenters supplied and installed all the joinery, including bespoke walnut doors in the living and leisure areas, as well as sliding doors in the basement and plinth boxes featuring architrave all the way up. The trickiest part of the project for us was getting all the design work signed off because this was such a high-specification house and very different to what we normally do – although of course we always strive for high standards, whatever we do!
